

BIO

ALEXIS H. SARKISIAN

Alexis H. Sarkisian is an Emmy award-winning documentarian and marketing communications management professional who specializes in working with nonprofit organizations. With experience as a radio television broadcast manager and global marketing executive, Alexis currently is an independent management and marketing consultant for corporate and nonprofit organizations. She also teaches leadership and communication at three local universities at the undergraduate and graduate levels. She also manages marketing and special events for Governors State University's library.