

General Internship Guide

The following websites will get you started.

E-Recruiting

<http://govst.erecruiting.com>

Career Services has established this website for students to post their resume and look for job vacancies from prospective employers. Students must obtain a serial user identification number from our office in order to register at this site.

Monstertrak

www.monstertrak.com

Excellent website, also houses intertrak.com. Students post a resume and search for a variety of jobs and internships throughout the country.

Summer Jobs

www.summerjobs.com

Students can use this site to find a great seasonal job both nationally and internationally and gain the experience of living somewhere else in the country or the world.

RS Internships

<http://rsinternships.com>

This is another great website for students and employers alike. Post your resume and find available internships/jobs all over the United States.

Idealist

www.idealists.org/about/about.html

This site provides about non-profit worldwide organizations including the services they provide and volunteer and internship openings that are available.

C.I.E.

www.cie.uci.edu/prospective/index.html

Called the Center for International Education website, this page connects students to many international organizations and opportunities to work and study abroad.

Why Intern?

An internship allows you access to the professional work world before you completed your academic studies. In selected disciplines, you can earn credit hours by working in a field related to your academic program.

On-the-job experiences and the effective use of skills learned in class instruction are elements of a successful internship.

Internships

- are cooperative efforts between organizations and the university;
- enrich and enhance students' academic experience; and
- are offered by employers in conjunction with the Office of Career Services and supervised by employers, and the Recruitment Coordinator.

How to get started?

First, research general careers in the accounting and finance fields.
