NATHAN MANILOW SCULPTURE PARK

Governors State University's Nathan Manilow Sculpture Park offers Chicagoland residents an opportunity to see a collection of large-scale contemporary sculpture in a public park setting. Programs and events present the landscape and sculpture in new and unexpected ways that inspire wonder around every corner. The park is supported by volunteers and donors who help to activate its mission and enable education, acquisition and conservation activities. This museum-in-the-prairie offers a free public space for area residents, year-round.

Sponsorship of Sculpture, Wine & Dine offers organizations or philanthropists who are passionate about sculpture, sustainability, or STEAM education programs a chance to make a difference in ensuring the continued success of this free community resource.
