MEETING SUMMARY

The meeting opened with a warm welcome and roll call led by Yvonne M. Orr. Attendees introduced themselves and their organizations, including representatives from Together We Cope, Cornerstone CDC, Family Guidance Centers, Cook County Department of Public Health, and others. The tone was warm, affirming, and community-centered. Yvonne acknowledged the recent passing of Ms. Willa Mae Smith, a beloved member of the Cornerstone CDC family and breast cancer mentor. Her memory was honored with reflections on her role in welcoming clients and supporting interdepartmental work.

PRESENTATION & DISCUSSION

The meeting centered on the emotional and psychological challenges of recovery, especially for caregivers and providers. Key points included:

- Caregivers carry a unique burden: fear of relapse, uncertainty of progress, and the quiet hope that healing is possible.
- A video clip was shared highlighting how trauma can wire the nervous system for stress, making peace feel unfamiliar. This sparked a group reflection on how recovery is not about pretending to be okay, but about recognizing and honoring the parts of ourselves still on guard.
- Yvonne emphasized the importance of compassion—toward others and ourselves—and challenged the group to avoid judgment, especially when working with individuals in early or unstable recovery.
- A viral video was discussed showing a woman in visible distress at a recovery meeting being ignored. This prompted a conversation about how we show up for people in crisis and the importance of presence, empathy, and nonjudgmental support.
