Needs Assessment

Community Demographics and Overdose Data:

Bond County is described by many citizens as a conservative, service-minded, and generous community used to pulling itself up by its bootstraps and being self-reliant. In terms of land use, Bond County is largely agricultural with just over 70% of its 245,100 acres zoned as agricultural. Interestingly, because of Bond County's geographic adjacency to Madison and other counties with much larger populations, it is often considered to be a "metro-urban county" as defined by the state of Illinois; however, many citizens of Bond county would define their community as rural which is further supported by the role agriculture has played in their economy, lifestyle, and culture over the last several decades.

Gaps Highlighted by FY26 Community Survey:

Since October 2025, lead agency ROSC staff, council members and community partners have gathered information from residents in Bond County. Efforts were made to collect data from a variety of communities and individuals, resulting in 218 completed surveys. Gaps identified by our community survey let us know that we need more education about the reduced risks to those who use drugs through harm reduction. Only 39% of those surveyed believe that harm reduction efforts reduce risks. We plan to be able to expand harm reduction and provide additional community education through work with the Next Network RCO. Stigma also continues to be a barrier as 25% of the people surveyed believe that people who use drugs deserve respect. By reducing community stigma more people will understand that they do deserve respect.

Qualitative Data Collected from Community Stakeholders:

Based on our review of community surveys, participant interviews, other county needs assessments and gap analysis, the Bond County Recovery Council members identified strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats in the county. Some of the weaknesses were harm reduction beyond Narcan and lack of education on where to find help. Through our partnership with the Next Network we turn these into strengths in Bond County. Among the threats in Bond County were stigma against those with SUD and mental health issues, misinformation, and denial of the schools that there is a problem. Through our Anti-Stigma campaign, we hope to create a recovery ready community in Bond County.

Outreach and Communication Plans FY26:

Purpose:

1. Increase awareness of the ROSC Council and publicize opportunities for involvement in the work of the Council.
2. Promote Stigma reduction and education.
3. Continue to strengthen relationships with existing Council members and Community partners.

Objectives:

1. Develop at least five different communication methods (press release, social media blasts, email blasts, radio interviews & YouTube Channel videos) for distribution by June 2026.
2. Increase the Social Media presence on Facebook of BCRC by June 2026 by 20%. Continue building our YouTube Channel videos by adding monthly meetings, quarterly Anti-Stigma Campaign videos, Council activities, and educational information.
3. Increase average attendance by 25% (from 16 to 20) at ROSC Council meetings by June 2026.

Target Audiences:

BCRC members identified five different sectors in the community for focus of our Communication and Outreach Plan. These groups will be our focus for the upcoming year.

1. Faith Communities – There are extensive opportunities with churches and faith groups in Bond County that are becoming engaged in the work of the ROSC Council and we will continue to provide resource materials, trainings and engage the Faith Community in our work. To many in our rural communities, the faith-based community is considered a “safe-place” to reach out when they need help. Engaging the faith community will lead to significant positive outcomes and connection with community. We will continue to partner in efforts such as community meals, clothing closets, and transportation assistance. We will participate in the monthly Ministerial Alliance meetings and provide support for their events. We will also continue to work with

Patrick Miller from the Center for Community Engagement to establish “Recovery Certified Churches” in the community.

2. Persons with Lived Experience (PLE’s)/Families - We will continue with our monthly Advisory Board (PLE’s) meetings to guide the work of the council. They will share ideas and provide time and effort into projects of the council. The Advisory Board has grown over the last year, and we continue to add new members. We have group emails, text message groups for the advisory board, for subcommittees working on specific projects, and messaging/events shared through Facebook. Several members of this group help with disseminating messages to others and making sure social media outlets are kept up to date. This group is vital to the work of the ROSC. It is extremely important for us to ensure that decisions made on the work of the ROSC is guided by those who have lived experience.
3. Substance Use Disorder and Mental Health Providers – We will make sure all providers in Bond County and surrounding areas are aware of the efforts of the ROSC Council and how they can be involved. We will communicate through our monthly meeting attendance, monthly meeting minutes, meeting videos shared on our YouTube channel, Facebook posts, email groups, in person conversations, and event flyers. We will continue to build and support our relationships with existing providers. These providers are extremely important to the ROSC as they provide direct services to individuals that the ROSC does not provide.
4. Medical Community – We will continue to make physicians and other medical personnel aware of our efforts and how they can support individuals in recovery and their families. We have formed a close relationship with the local HSHS hospital (the only hospital in the county). They attend meetings regularly and help to support the council’s efforts and projects. They have also provided financial support for several of the events we have hosted. We make sure they are informed of all meetings, initiatives, and events through personal communication, emails, flyers, zoom calls, social media. They are an important part of our efforts in Bond County because they are often the point of contact by individuals who are seeking help. We can provide them with the resources needed to guide individuals to care.
5. Law Enforcement/Probation Dept./State’s Attorney/Coroner - Officers/Probation Dept./Coroner are aware of the work of the ROSC Council and how they can be involved. Although we do not have consistent attendance at monthly meetings by this group (due to small staff and scheduling), we remain committed to keeping them up to date on the work of the council through emails, one-on-one outreach, meeting minutes, event flyers, and social media posts. It has been very important to keep this group informed as they have supported many of our efforts in the community. We often get emails or calls replying to events we need help with and comments about the work we are doing. Law enforcement is often the first ones to respond to a crisis involving people with mental health/substance use issue with little formal training on how to handle these situations. Partnering with them allows another avenue for the ROSC to distribute resource lists.

Key Messages:

Messaging will be about collaboration efforts on projects, updates on planning events, stigma reduction and education, sharing information on other organizations projects, and communicating progress to members of the council. All messaging will be inclusive.

Communication Channels & Frequency:

We will continue to communicate about the work of the Bond County Recovery Council through our Facebook page, our YouTube channel, local radio interviews, event posters, emails blasts, and group text messages. We will communicate at least 3 times a week. Toni Randall and Monique Brunious take the lead on communication, with members of the council often helping by sharing information within their organizations or their social media platforms about meetings, agendas, and events.

Roles and Responsibilities:

In the future we hope to have some members from our Advisory Board who have technological knowledge to help with social media platforms. It is the expectation of all people in the council to use non-stigmatizing language.

Evaluation and Feedback:

We will track impact through analytic engagement on social media and social media insights. We will also ask individuals who attend our events “how did they hear about the event”. We will also track the number of people who are watching the YouTube Videos that we post. For communication within the Council, we ask members what their preferred method of communication is. We also track the number of email addresses that are receiving our email blasts.
