Program Description:

Globalization is an important phenomenon affecting all countries. An understanding of the political, legal, and economic (formal and informal) characteristics of another country deepens a student's understanding of how interconnected our world is, facilitates a deeper appreciation of the impact of globalization in the United States, and clarifies the roles of markets and governments in generating economic growth.

South Africa is the powerhouse of Africa. It is the driving force behind African growth. It has the most advanced, broad-based economy in Africa, and its infrastructure matches that of any first-world country. South Africa is ranked 39th place in the world for ease of doing business by the World Bank and International Finance Corporation (IFC). However, South Africa's culture and economy can make doing business there, a tricky endeavor. The South African economy is dominated by large corporations with a relatively underdeveloped small and medium enterprise sector. Meetings are rather informal when compared with the United States.

Whether or not a student's academic or professional interests are focused on South Africa, this program is designed to help the student gain a better understanding of the differences and similarities between the U.S.A. and other countries and broaden their horizons. While the small details learned in the program might be focused on South Africa, the comparisons and critical thinking that will take place will help the participant in any business endeavor be it domestic or international, with South Africa or with any other country.
